He will enter upon his duties December first, when Dr. Holton's resignation takes effect.

The correspondence between Dr. Holton and Dr. C. S. Caverly regarding the resignation follows:

Brattleboro, Vt. Oct. 9, 1912. C. S. Caverly, M. D., President State Board of Health:

Dear Sir .- I herewith present my resignation as secretary of the State board of health, to take effect upon the appointment of my successor. The labor, it has my pleasure to give to the duties of this office, has been that of love. Helieving that there has been much accomplished by the board for the permanent improvement in all sanitary respects, upon this foundation there should prevent disease and suffering, prolonging life with added blessings. Yours truly.

HENRY D. HOLTON, Secretary. Montpeller, Vt. Oct. 16, 1912. Henry D. Holton, M. D., Secretary of State Board of Health, Brattleboro.

Vt.: board learn with regret your determination to relinquish the office of secretary In accepting your resignation, we wish to record our appreciation of the untiring zeal and rare good judgment with which you have administered this office during the past 12 years. We feel that the public health interests of the State, and that means the people of the whole State, are permanently your debtors.

During the last few years, however, the labors of Professor Carstang at Saktjegeuzi in Cilicia, of Mr. Hogarth at Jerablus, and of the German excavators at Boghazkeui have brought to light the ruins of palaces and cities of great importance for the study of Hittite history and culture, together with longer inscriptions in Hittite script than any yet available. But an even more sensational discovery was made when Professor Hugo Winckler found at Boghazkuei inscribed copies of treatles between the king of the Hittites and the king of the Mitannians, an allied and kindred nation of northern Mesopotamia, at a date some thing like 1400 B. C. In these treaties, mong the Mitannian gods invoked, apcar the Vedic detties Mitra, Varuna, indra, and, probably, the Asvins or Heavenly Twins. Their tenets have hitherto only been known to us by the writings of fathers of the church like St. Augustine, who himself belonged to the ect for some nine years, and of Mohammedan writers who came into contact with them after the Mussulman conquest of Asia. The archaeological expeditions lately sent to Central Asia by the German, Russian, and French governments, coupled with the journeys of our own emissary, Dr. Aurel Stein, have now resulted in the discovery in Turkestan and on the borders of China of a great mass of documents, written in the script pecullar to the Manichaeans, and containing the actual prayers and treatises of in the Manichaean faith.
